Snugas a Bug

Well the weather held out, but Miss Gates didn't – she was laid low by a different kind of bug, so some children missed their outdoor learning this week.

Here are our wonderfully snuggly buggy shelters we made at Shalfleet. Can you tell which creatures we are from the houses we built?

It was a great opportunity to practise using tools and tying knots.

We also got to build our team work and determination. When we are working together on a project we sometimes have to find a way to compromise and resolve our differences. But that's OK because it helps us develop better relationships.

At Yarmouth some of us managed to get out to make some fantastic bug homes...

...and, of course, some delicious snacks from the mud kitchen.
